About Blackburn and Bronston Spun by the Louisville Sunday Star. LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 30.-The Sunday Star printed a story which was to the effect that Bronston's support of Blackburn in the recent affair at Frankfort was nothing more or less than the result of a star chamber deal at the capital, by which Bronston was to head the state ticket at the next election. According to the Star the deal

If "Sound Money" Bronston would agree to throw his best efforts to the support of Blackburn the senator in turn would do his best to elect Bron ston chief magistrate of the state. The slate, as fixed up, the Star says is as follows: Governor, Charles J. Bronston, of Fayette; lieutenant governor, John P. Chinn of Mercer: attor ney general, William Goebel, of Kenten; auditor, Ollie James, of Daviess; treasurer, D. E. O. Sullivan, Jefferson secretary of state, John P. Sayler, or Magoffin: superintendent of public in stitution, J. B. Hiles, of Bracken.

SERIOUS CLASH Between Louisville's Mayor and the Board of Public Safety. LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 28.-It looks like war to the knife now between republican Mayor Todd and the democratic board of safety. The board some time ago announced certain changes it desired, and ordered made. The mayor did not like them, and now proposes an adjustment of the department by which no new men will be needed for the three additional houses to be pened. The mayor says that he knows ceans from peas and that there has been too much extravagance. Prices have been out of reason, he says, and promises to reduce them to where they

A FEATHERED MONSTER.

Strange and Gigantic Bird Killed by Man in West Virginia. Elias Midkif, of Hamlin, Lincoln unty, was in Charleston the other day, and proposed to the State Historical and Antiquarian society that if it would send a taxidermist to Hamlin the society would secure a monster bird, of a kind never seen before by anyone West Virginia. The feathered nster, says the Baltimore American, is described by Mr. Midkif, from measurements taken by himself and W. W. Adkins, of Hamlin, who killed the bird at the mouth of Vannatters creek, with five bullets from his rifle, while hunting deer recently. The bird is seven feet four inches from tip to tip, four feet from tip of bill to tail, flat bill four inches long and three inches wide, somewhat similar to that of a duck web feet, covering nearly a square foot of area each; neck 19 inches long, legs about 11 inches long, and about one and a half inches through below the feathers; plumage dark brown, relieved on the wings and breast by light blue shading. The bird when first seen was circling high in the air, but came down very quickly and alighted in the Mrs. Dr. Burdett, of Crab Orchard. | water, where Adkins got a good shot at against the Louisville & Nashville Rail- it, crippling its wing. A South American traveler was witness of a thrilling fight between two big punns. They came together like cata pults, and for ten minutes fought with the utmost desperation. "Finally," says the narrator, "they began to weaken, and as their struggles grew less violent we could see that both of them were covered with blood, while their flesh was torn to shreds. In five minutes more the fight was over and the two giants of the forest were stretched out at full length on the ground. They struggled feebly a little longer and then both of them lay perfectly still. Both were dead when we got to them, and l never saw animals so torn to pieces."
